Our Vision: Maui is a place where the spirit of aloha (love) and ohana (family) is the essence of our kupuna (elder) friendly isle.

Our Mission is to establish and sustain a comprehensive, coordinated home and community-based model of services for all that will foster quality of life and death with dignity.

Our Strategies and Goals:

Strategy 1: “Getting our Hale (House) in Order”

Goal 1: Improve access to information about long-term care services (including residential and support services, education, training, and employment) and availability so that people can make informed choices.

Strategy 2: “Organizing and Getting the Word Out”

Goal 2: Increase awareness and knowledge at all levels of society about aging, long-term care and supportive services;

Strategy 3: “Educating and Training Today’s Generations and Preparing Future Generations”

Goal 3: Provide education and training to long-term care caregivers in both informal home-based and formal professional situations;

Strategy 4: “Influencing Change”

Goal 4: Develop, implement, and sustain an organized long-term care infrastructure for Maui Island that matches the community’s needs and preferences.

Our Planned Outcomes:

The strategic plan is the beginning of a long-range process. By the year 2020, the Partnership envisions that all the work activity that is carried out between 2004 and 2020 will reap the following key benefits for Mauians:

- The long-term care bed supply (institutional and residential alternatives) will meet Maui’s needs;
- The majority of older adults will live at home for as long as possible;
- There will be more families caring for their loved elder parents at home;
- There will be more long-term care and support services available in the community that is more affordable and accessible to older adults and their families.
- There will be an adequate workforce to meet care demands.
- There will be more people taking personal action to promote healthy aging and planning for long-term care;
- There will be an attitude that the payer of long-term care costs is a mix, including public and private funding, and personal responsibility for “saving for aging;” and
- There will be more training available and implemented regularly to maintain an adequate supply of skill sets to meet the demands for long-term care.

Designed by Ray Henderson

Maui Long Term Care Partnership is supported by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation through its Community Partnerships for Older Adults (CPFOA) national initiative. CPFOA seeks to foster community partnerships that are improving long term care and supportive services systems to meet the current and future needs of older adults.

Four-Year Planned Deliverables

Statements developed as of June 2004

- Maui has an information system (computerized, regionally based directories, and a one-stop resource center system) in place for consumers to access information to make informed decisions.
- Maui's information system (computerized, regionally based directories and one-stop resource center system) is being used.
- The communication messages deployed to get the word out about the system is effective (i.e., Maui Information System is being used and provider system is appropriately directing consumers so they enter "no wrong door").
- Maui has a program that teaches values and methods for honoring and respecting Kupuna (elders).
- Maui has a centralized data base of available caregiver training including who provides it and when they provide it. Such information is made available and maintained on the Maui Information System.
- Lahainaluna High School students are learning about the long-term care field from theory to practice by participating in a pilot project with anticipated expansion to other schools.
- Adult learners are participating in a new program on Maui to learn about the long-term care field from theory to practice.
- Partnership members are participating in workshops designed to provide information about existing and future planned long-term care resources available from various community agencies and how they are structured, financed, and inter-related.
- The regional planning groups are participating and making recommendations for administrative and policy changes to the delivery system.
- The Partnership, utilizing the recommendations from the regional planning groups and the knowledge base of the Partnership members, is making recommendations and advocating for administrative and policy changes according to the needs and preferences of the community.

Community Participation is the key to success to the Partnership's planning and implementation efforts. The approach involves community input and participation all the way through the process of developing and implementing an island-wide Strategic Plan, taking in to consideration principles of diversity and inclusion, decision making styles, and community preferences, similarities and differences.

Regional Representatives serve as liaisons to their respective communities in the formulation of community goals and plans.
